While I have reason to be pleased with the success of the most of our schools the past year, yet, in some of the districts, the schools were not just what they had ought to have been; mostly on account of poor order and discipline. Good order is the foundation of a successful school, and without it a school is pretty apt to be a failure, or very near it. Of the ten different teachers teaching in town the past year, only one taught for the first time, viz: the one teaching in No. 4, and I think she had as good success as any of the older and more experienced teachers. In fact, her school was all that I could ask for in every respect.

The schools, or some of them, were shortened on account of the reduction made at March meeting, of the amount raised in addition to what the law requires. Although it did not make as much difference this year as it will next, as there was dog tax enough to make up about half the deficiency, and some of the districts had some money back. But this year we shall get no dog tax, and none of the districts, so far as I can learn, have got any money back. So that if we do not increase the appropriation for school purposes at this Town meeting, our schools will be a great deal shorter next year than this. I think that three hundred dollars, in addition to what the law requires is little enough for this town. It would economize more to increase it to four hundred, than to reduce it to two hundred, for, if we have school money enough, we can educate our children just as well at home as to send them away to school, and at one-tenth of the cost, for one or two hundred dollars tax makes but a very little difference in each individual's tax—so small they would never know the difference.

I know it is claimed by those opposed to raising any additional sum for school purposes, that adjoining towns in which we have union districts do not raise money, except what the law requires, and we are using our money to educate their children. But, with the exception of Ashland, this is not so, and Ashland is a small town with a larger inventory and population than Holderness, and the law requires it to raise a larger amount for school purposes. In District No. 1, of Ashland, last year the amount of school money in that district alone exceeded the amount of school money for our whole town, by about five hundred dollars. So that any one can see there is no need of raising any additional sum for school purposes in Ashland.

In District No. 9 they gave the wood, and board of teacher; an example which might be followed with profit in some of the other districts. I know it is not quite so pleasant for a teacher, but it makes a great difference in the length of a school.

In my report last spring, I spoke about the condition of the text books and that something ought to be done to secure a uniformity of text books throughout the town. As I was the committee this year, it fell to my lot to do it. Perhaps my manner of doing it might seem a little independent, but it was the only way it could be done successfully. I expected some opposition, but am glad to say I met with none of any account. I think the parents realized that it was for their benefit and not mine. I did not receive a cent of commission; what little there was I gave to Mr. Whitten. The only book changed was the geographies; the other new books were used to complete the introductions of previous committees. I do not see now as there is need of changing text books again for years, with the exception of the arithmetics and these should be changed. Greenleaf's old common school arithmetic is rather behind the times, and besides there are two or three other kinds used in town, and I think a new arithmetic should be introduced to supersede them all, and I hope my successor will give it his earliest attention. F. L. WALLACE, School Committee.
